

Joy Buikema Fjærtøft

Joy is a psychologist who has worked for close to 20 years as an internal and external organizational consultant.

- Her role as an internal consultant has given her a good background for understanding organizations from the inside and for working together with an organization's internal resources.
- As an external consultant she has experience from a broad range of organizations in both the public and private sector.
- In addition she has several years' practical experience in a leadership role – both as a team leader and as manager of an agency with an international workforce, where 30 different languages were represented.

Change leadership, team and talent development, organizational culture, communication, emotional intelligence, diversity, communication, coaching, facilitation and creativity are key work areas. Joy has a special interest in the cross-cultural aspects of these issues, and is also engaged in cross-cultural training.

Joy has been living and working in Norway for many years. She came to Norway from the U.S. for the first time already in 1974. Since then she has also lived 4 years in Germany (East and West), and 3 years in New York. Her education as a psychologist is from the University of Oslo. She has also studied organizational psychology at the University in Bonn, and German at the University in Greifswald. Her B.A. is in English and Norwegian language and literature from St.Olaf College in Minnesota.
